Executive Summary

During Q3/2026, Selic Corp Public Company Limited ("SELIC") operated in an environment of continued global economic uncertainty and heightened challenges from several factors. Geopolitical tensions in the Middle East intensified toward the end of the quarter following direct military confrontation between the United States and Iran, together with attacks on energy infrastructure in the region. As a result, Brent crude oil prices increased from approximately USD 70 per barrel in early July to above USD 100 per barrel in September, accompanied by higher maritime freight costs and rising petrochemical raw material prices. These developments directly affected key raw material costs of the Adhesive Business, particularly solvents and related chemicals. At the same time, uncertainty surrounding United States tariff measures continued to weigh on Thai export activities in the second half of 2026.

Against this backdrop, the Company reported total revenue of 508.45 million baht in Q3/2026, decreased 9.9% from previous quarter but increased 2.4% from the same period last year. The quarter-on-quarter decline was primarily attributable to softer sales across all business segments, including sales in the Healthcare Business which eased from the elevated level recorded in Q2/2026. Nevertheless, compared with the same period last year, the Company continued to deliver growth, with Net Profit Attributable to Owners of the Parent of 44.75 million baht, increased 16.5%, and a gross profit margin of 34.0%, improved from 32.0% in Q3/2025. These results reflect the Company's effective business portfolio management, proactive raw material procurement, and continued increase in the sales mix of higher value-added products.

The Company remains committed to managing raw material and supply chain risks, controlling costs, and maintaining the competitiveness of all three business segments — the Adhesive Business, the Self-adhesive Business, and the Healthcare Business — in order to support financial stability and sustainable long-term growth amid continued uncertainty in the economic environment and external factors.

Sustaining Growth Across All Business Segments

During Q3/2026, the Company continued to focus on maintaining the revenue base and competitiveness of all three business segments, despite softer demand and raw material cost volatility arising from the Middle East situation. These efforts were supported by disciplined cost management, proactive raw material procurement, and the alignment of sales strategies with prevailing market conditions.

For the Adhesive Business, the Company continued to focus on retaining its existing customer base while expanding into both domestic and international markets, particularly for Hot Melt Products, which benefited from strong growth in overseas sales. As a result, the business segment's revenue from sales and services in the quarter increased from the same period last year, even though sales of Solvent Products and Water Based Products faced pressure from market conditions and higher raw material costs. The Company continued to closely manage raw material procurement and production costs to mitigate market volatility and maintain its competitive position.

For the Self-adhesive Business, the Company continued to increase the sales proportion of higher value-added products, particularly Specialty Labels, which recorded outstanding growth of 58.3% from the same period last year, driven by demand for specialty label applications across various industries in both domestic and international markets. The Company also continued to expand its presence in the food and beverage, pharmaceuticals, and consumer goods industries, where demand remained resilient, even though sales of Paper Labels and Film Labels continued to face pressure from the economic environment and intense price competition in certain markets.

The Healthcare Business remained a key driver of growth compared with the same period last year, with sales and services revenue increasing 17.9%, supported by growth in core product groups including both Pain Relief and First Aids Dressing products, together with continuous new product development and distribution network expansion to enhance consumer accessibility and support the sustainable long-term growth of the business

Expanding Gross Profit Margin Through Effective Business Portfolio and Cost Management

Despite facing raw material price volatility and rising petrochemical costs arising from the escalation of geopolitical tensions in the Middle East, the Company successfully maintained and improved its overall gross profit margin compared with the same period last year. The gross profit margin in Q3/2026 stood at 34.0%, improved from 32.0% in Q3/2025. The improvement was primarily attributable to effective business portfolio management, an increased sales mix of higher value-added products, and disciplined cost management.

During Q3/2026, the Company continued to focus on efficient supply chain management, selective targeting of customer segments and products offering attractive returns, and prudent pricing strategies aligned with raw material costs and prevailing market conditions. The Self-adhesive Business continued to benefit from the growth of higher value-added Specialty Labels, while the Adhesive Business continued to face pressure from rising raw material costs. Meanwhile, the Healthcare Business continued to deliver growth compared with the same period last year, supported by the expansion of distribution channels and growth in sales of its core product portfolio.

In addition, the Company remained focused on controlling operating expenses, optimizing inventory management, and continuously improving production efficiency to mitigate cost volatility, enhance competitiveness, and support sustainable long-term growth.

EBITDA and net profit

Supported by effective cost management and ongoing Product Mix optimization, the Company sustained EBITDA and net profit growth in Q3/2026 compared with the same period last year, even though operating performance moderated from the previous quarter in line with softer market conditions. The Company reported Net Profit of 57.11 million baht, increased 4.9% from the same period last year, reflecting its effective business management and ability to sustain profitability amid a challenging environment..

Solvent Product: sales was 41.60 million baht, decreased 16.9% from previous quarter and decreased 24.5% from the same period of last year. Water Based Product: sales was 14.20 million baht, decreased 22.3% from previous quarter and decreased 3.4% from the same period of last year. 2026 Business Outlook

For the remainder of 2026, the global economy continues to face a high level of uncertainty, particularly from the ongoing conflict in the Middle East. Although crude oil prices moderated to some extent in November 2026 on expectations of peace negotiations, Geopolitical Risk Premium remains elevated due to attacks on shipping vessels in the Strait of Hormuz and tit-for-tat military actions between the United States and Iran, which could lead to further volatility in oil and petrochemical raw material prices in the period ahead. In addition, United States tariff measures, including additional Section 301 measures introduced during the second half of the year, continue to weigh on global trade sentiment and Thai export activities.

For the Thai economy, the Bank of Thailand (BOT) at its Monetary Policy Committee meeting on 28 October 2026 maintained the policy rate at 1.00% and revised the GDP growth forecast for 2026 and 2027 to 2.4% and 2.1%, respectively. The BOT assessed that the Thai economy continues to expand at a low and uneven pace, while headline inflation is expected to rise temporarily due to energy prices and the impact of El Niño. Key risks continue to stem from the elevated level of household debt, fragile domestic consumption, contraction in SME lending, and pressure from oil prices on the tourism sector and the Thai baht.
Against this backdrop, SELIC will continue to operate with prudence by emphasizing effective raw material and supply chain risk management, production cost control, and the adjustment of pricing strategies in line with cost volatility, together with selective targeting of high-potential customer segments and an increased proportion of higher value-added products, in order to sustain profitability and market share over the long term.

Sustaining Revenue and Expanding Growth Opportunities Across All Business Segments

SELIC remains committed to sustaining revenue across all business segments while pursuing new growth opportunities. In the Adhesive Business and the Self-adhesive Business, the Company continues to expand its customer base in industries with resilient demand, including the food and beverage, packaging, consumer goods, and export-oriented sectors. The Company also continues to expand its presence in markets with strong growth potential and sustained demand for industrial products.

For the Healthcare Business, the Company remains focused on new product development, expanding its distribution network, and strengthening brand awareness in both domestic and international markets.
